We've missed you!

Dear Friends,

We hope this newsletter finds you in good health. Luckily, all on the WFFM Executive Board are in good health and we hope is the same for you and your families. We have delighted to hear that our members are starting to look ahead to 2022 with more optimism than this time last year.

There is no doubt that our community has suffered during this pandemic. Many of our museums have closed doors, many of our families have weathered illness and even death, many of our communities are still in lock down. Nevertheless, we remain hopeful and confident in our strength and purpose as friends of museums and friends of each other.

It has been especially hopeful to regain more frequent communication with our membership and learn that each of you is doing your part to recover and reinvest in museums.

Most especially, we are excited to begin planning our next meeting as a global community. Please see the much awaited announcement below, a save the date for Marseille France 2022.

In the weeks ahead you will hear from us on regular basis regarding the amazing itinerary led by Rene and his team. We will also include updates on how the evolving pandemic is affecting travel.

No matter where you are in the world, know that you have been in our thoughts and hearts and that we look forward to continued progress and our eventual reunion.

A bientot,
WFFM
